Coleman Pinot Noir Old Block Pommard 2018

USA > Oregon > McMinnville

Dry, Red, Still wine

100% Pinot Noir

Old Block Pommard is vinted from the oldest vines planted on the family estate in 1991. The vines are own-rooted, growing deep into the basalt bedrock. Rich and plummy with notes of acai and sweet mandarin and a lingering palate with plenty to chew on. Satin finish. This full bodied pinot noir is a star of the vintage and will be enjoyable for years to come with a myriad of cuisines. Enjoy with sausage , chow mein, pork bao, pizza margherita, confit de canard, potatoes au gratin, scalloped, or frites, and ribeye.

About us

Initially planted in 1991, Coleman Vineyard family estate winery is located in the McMinnville AVA Coast Range foothills of the Willamette Valley.

Terroir

Coleman Vineyard is located in the McMinnville foothills of Yamhill County in the Willamette Valley. The vineyard is close to the Van Duzer corridor, an opening through the Coast Range mountains to the Oregon coast, providing hot summer days with afternoon winds cooling the evening temperatures significantly. We believe this temperature variation, along with the volcanic soils, contribute to the phenolic characteristics and brightness of the wine, providing a structure for aging and signature dark cherry and spice flavors with intense color. Because of these unique influences, the coastal foothills of McMinnville has been approved for AVA status, and the area is known as the McMinnville AVA. The area is 40 million years old, formed from oceanic volcanic uprisings followed by deposits of lava from the Cascade Mountain volcanic eruptions known as 'basalt tufts'.
